Singer-songwriter-guitarist Tom Guerra steps out of swinging doors blazing on his outstanding new album, Trampling Out The Vintage. Handling all the guitar and vocals as well as some of the bass and Hammond organ parts from song to song, it's unquestionably clear that Guerra is a talented, accomplished musician.

Joined by bassist Kenny Aaronson, Morgan Fischer on piano & organ, Mike "DoubleDog" Kosacek on drums and Matt Zeiner on piano and Hammond organ, this talented hand picked collective gives Guerra a grounded landing spot for his six string excursions into the stratosphere while keeping the music's foundation red hot.

Throughout Trampling Out The Vintage, Guerra's guitar playing is superb displaying not only his considerably nimble guitar chops, but his knack for tasteful riffs coupled to a huge guitar tone. Sorry gang, there's no filler here, just a well conceived album full of well written songs and guitar-driven ear candy.

Songs of particular note include the Traveling Wilburys' inspired "Tell The World," the rockin' "BYOB," that displays Guerra's fiery fretboard finesse, the well orchestrated pop rocker, "Make Your Own Kind of Music," and the trippy, tremolo drenched "Grow On Your Own." Good stuff! [B.M.O.]
